- 1. It is generally believed in South Koren that the Barth Korens government has abundanced plans for an "election" in South Koren because of the intensive purge of Stathern Communiste. Initiated by South Korenn officials in early August. The Communist organizations which were able to held "elections" in South for before the meeting of the United Bations General Assembly in 1948 are now largely disorganized by the operations of the South Korean police. Leftist leaders in South Force tried to collect signatures on blank beliets from the local population, but had little success. One forces family was threatened with physical violence for refusing to sign the ballots.
- 2. Daring September three staff numbers of the Worth Korean Labor larty who very interviewed independently stated that the North Korean government planned no invasion of South Korea in 1949. However, they stated that leftist activities in South Korea would increase; for this purpose, leaders would be sent from North Korea to replace leftists who are now under arrest or suspiction. Many South Korean Communist leaders have fled into the mountain areas around Trake. They have lost the support of the Borth Korean Communists, and many of their own fellowers fear to be associated with them. He organized Communist movement is noticipated until the South Korean groups have been reorganized.
